VOLUME XXX NO. 118

SEYMOUR, INDIANA, TUESDAY, APRIL 4, 1911.

PRICE TWO CENTS

TO ESTABLISH READING ROOM

Is the Plan of the Members of the Ministerial Association of the City.

FOR USE OF RAILROAD MEN.

Ministers Also Arrange For Holding
Big Union Meetings Here Next October.

The Ministerial Association of the city held an important meeting in the study of the Baptist church Monday afternoon. After discussing the matter carefully, it was decided to take steps looking to the establishment of a reading room for railroad men. Next Sunday the ministers will bring the matter before their congregations and an effort is to be made to interest the men in the proposition.

It is the intention to obtain a building near the railroad yards if possible. Besides the free reading rooms it is the plan to make the building a clean and inviting place where the men when off duty can assemble for a social time. It is also the plan to have bath rooms for their use and it is hoped that these may in time afford a revenue large enough to pay running expenses or at least a part of them.

It is the hope that eventually the movement may lead to the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building. An effort is to be made to interest Miss Helen Gould of New York in the project, and a communication will be sent to her explaining the situation and conditions here and the objects of the ministers in the present movement.

Miss Gould has always shown a deep interest in the establishment of Y. M. C. A. reading and recreation rooms for railroad men and has contributed large sums to them.

The ministers at their meeting also decided to arrange for a big union revival meeting in Seymour next fall, to begin probably in October. An evangelist of national reputation will be secured, three men being now under consideration. The churches will unite in general work that, it is expected, will be productive of much good in the city.

Rev. J. W. Short was on the regular program for the afternoon and read a paper on "Soul Winning."

The Ebner Ice & Cold Storage Co. have on hand an ample supply of Lime-Sulphur solution, which they are offering at a low price in order to encourage the spraying of apple orchards and other fruits.

Musical Monday Evening.

Over two hundred guests were entertained at a musicale given at the Presbyterian church Monday evening by the Progressive Musical Club.

A delightful and high class program was furnished by two well known Indianapolis artists, Johannes Miersch, violin virtuoso and Carl Beutel, American pianist. Mrs. Pfaffenberger, president of the club, made a short address speaking of the purposes of the club, extending a welcome to the guests and presenting the artists.

The following program was rendered: Sonata in G Major, Op. 100. Dvorak. Allegro risoluto.

Andante.

Scherzo vivace.

Allegro con fuoco.

Impromptu..... Arensky
Danse Humoresque..... Stojowski
Hungarian Rhapsody No. 8..... Liszt
Concerto in E Major..... Vieuxtemps
La Nuit..... Glasenov
Arabesque..... Debussy
March from Suite, Op. 91..... Raff
Meditation from "Thais"..... Massenet
Concert Polonaise..... Miersch

The company evinced their enjoyment and appreciation of the program by frequent encores which were responded to with additional numbers. After the program came a pleasant social hour. Punch was served in the lecture room by Misses Catherine Hancock, Mary Lee Galbraith, Helen Galbraith, Hattie Roeger, Margaret Miller and Lois Reynolds. The officers of the club, Mrs. Pfaffenberger, Mrs. Peter, Mrs. Abele and Mrs. Reynolds served as a reception committee.

The Presbyterian Organ.

The beautiful new organ, recently placed in the Presbyterian church, has been tested by an expert organist and by him pronounced very fine. The ladies, through whose efforts the money was obtained to purchase the organ, are commended for their good results. Within a few days, a copper tablet will be placed upon the organ, engraved with ninety-three names. These, in whose memory donations were made, are names of those departed long ago, or in recent years worshipped with the Presbyterian congregation. On Tuesday of next week the organ will be heard at a recital, and the music, which will be rendered by an artist, is well worth hearing. Arrange your plans that you may for yourself decide whether the Presbyterian organ is not something for which Seymour should feel a just pride.

Musical.

Mrs. Hazel Anderson Stratton has arranged for her annual musicale to be given at the First Baptist church Thursday evening, April 13, at 8 p. m. She has arranged with some of the best musical talent in Seymour to appear on her program and the event promises to be one of unusual interest in musical circles. A free will offering will be received at the door, the proceeds of which will go to the Easter Building Fund of the First Baptist Sunday School. A general invitation is extended to everyone interested in music to attend and enjoy the evening.

MOVING DAY

Part of New Railroad Office Building
To Be Occupied Wednesday.

The use of the new B. & O. S-W. office building, the old Jonas hotel, will probably begin Wednesday, although the work of preparing the building for occupancy has not been completed, it has progressed far enough that the offices in the upper part of the local station will be moved. The dispatchers and the train master and his force will take part in the move.

Smith, Chief Dispatcher and the force under him will have three rooms and the train master and clerks will occupy two rooms.

There are now 9 regular dispatchers and two extras on the force here. They work in three shifts. The chief dispatcher has a stenographer and there is a car distributor, a time keeper on duty. The new quarters will be light, airy and sanitary and a vast improvement over the old.

Three operators will remain at the old location for local work.

Yardmaster J. B. Purkhiser, who has in the past had no regular office room, will use the rooms vacated by the trainmaster and chief dispatcher.

ON OLD CHARGES.

B. & O. S-W. is Fined For Violation of Sixteen Hour Law.

Judge Anderson of the Federal Court yesterday imposed a fine of $225 on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad Company for violation of the sixteen-hour law. The suit was brought for the government by District Attorney Charles W. Miller, and it was alleged that on June 2, 1909, and Aug. 15, 1909, the railroad company forced an engineer, fireman and conductors to work longer than sixteen consecutive hours, in violation of the law. The company pleaded guilty and asked the leniency of the court. The original suit included a total of six charges, on which judgment of $500 on each count was asked. Judge Anderson imposed a fine of $100 on the first count and $25 on each of the remaining five counts. A number of similar suits brought against other roads are pending.

Where Camels Smoke.

A curious fact is described in the April Strand Magazine regarding the taming of wild camels by the natives of Morocco. A three-cornered piece of wood, through which a hole is drilled, is placed in the mouth of the camel, and a lighted cigar, very large and loosely rolled, is then inserted in the hole. As soon as the animal starts to draw it becomes very tame, and continues to inhale the smoke and to emit it through its nose. As soon as the first cigar is finished a new one must be put in its place, otherwise the camel becomes furious and very stubborn, fixes its legs in the ground, and cannot be made to move until the cigar smokes again.

NEW COUNTY MAP IS PUBLISHED

Was Prepared By Clark Davis, of Seymour and O. S. Brooke of Brownstown.

IT FILLS A LONG FELT WANT.

Shows Roads, Streams, Townships,
Churches, Schools, All the Farms
And the Owners.

The new Jackson county map which Clark B. Davis of Seymour, and O. S. Brooke of Brownstown, have had under preparation for several months, is out and the first consignment of three hundred has been received from the publishers.

"Filling a long felt want" is a job frequently undertaken in various lines, but the publication of this map assuredly comes under this heading. It has been nearly twenty years since a map of the kind was issued and the last one is badly out of date.

It was comparatively small and was issued for the use of the schools by order of the Jackson county board of Education. W. B. Black, at the time county superintendent, and W. W. Thompson prepared it.

The new map is on cloth and its dimensions are 36x42 inches, so that it will be serviceable and also is large enough to show everything that could well appear on such a map.

It shows the congressional and civil townships, the latter in different colors, range lines, all rivers and streams with names, cities, towns and villages, railroads and interurban lines, country churches and schools and gravel roads and other public highways.

Probably the most useful and up-to-date feature of the map however is the land divisions. Every farm with the number of acres it contains and the name of the owner is shown. This will be exceedingly useful as a reference in many cases.

Mr. Brooke began the work on the map about two years ago and last year spent much time for about eight months running the county records securing land descriptions and names of owners. Last summer Mr. Davis became associated with him and during the fall spent several months revising and bringing up-to-date the data for use on the map. There is probably no better county map in the state than this new one of Jackson county and Messrs. Davis and Brooke will probably have no difficulty in disposing of their supply.

Will Give Reception.

The members of the Central Christian church will give a reception next Thursday evening at the church on Poplar street in honor of their new pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. George Rader, and give them an opportunity to become acquainted. The ministers of the various churches of the city will also be invited.

A program is being arranged for the occasion.

Attention, Woodmen!

Regular meeting Wednesday, April 5 to 8 o'clock p. m. Important business. Everyone urged to be present.

STORE ROBBED

C. R. Hoffman Loses Money and Merchandise.

The fact that the dry goods store of Chas. R. Hoffman was robbed Sunday night was kept very quiet Monday. Not until today did the fact become known. Sunday evening between 7:30 and 8:30 some one entered the store. During this hour Mr. Hoffman is always at church and there was no fear of being molested. About 8:30 Mr. Hoffman had occasion to go to the store for a moment. He found that some one had unlocked the door probably using a skeleton key. A screw had been taken from the lock so that it did not fasten. He did not miss anything at the time. Later in the night the store was entered again. When he opened the store Monday morning, Mr. Hoffman found that about $36.00 in cash had been taken. About a dozen umbrellas had been carried away also, perhaps to shelter from the heavy rain which was falling Sunday night. Mr. Hoffman has no clue as to the identity of the robbers.

RECLINING CHAIR NEEDED.

For Man Who Has Been an Invalid
A Year.—Unable to Lie Down.

Attention has been called to one of our citizens who is suffering from elephantiasis and dropsy who has been unable to lie down for more than a year. He is being cared for by his sister who has been obliged to give up her regular employment to look after his needs. Some time ago the Young People's Society of the St. Paul's church provided a pneumatic cushion for him which somewhat relieved his sufferings, but he needs very much an invalid chair so that he may change his position somewhat and thus rest himself as far as possible. Such a chair will cost $25.00.

Any contributions for this purpose may be left at this office or handed to Rev. H. R. Booch. Persons who wish to inquire about the conditions may call Rev. H. R. Booch or Dr. M. F. Gerrish.

The following contribution will start the fund:

OFFICER CALLED

To Glenlawn by Report That Woman
Threatened Suicide.

Marshall Abel was called to Glenlawn this afternoon by the report that Mrs. Thomas Goens was threatening suicide. The alarming news had been brought to the city building by the young woman's mother. When the officer arrived at the Glenlawn home he found the woman somewhat under the influence of liquor and in possession of a loaded revolver.

She denied however that she had intended to kill herself. She claimed that a young man supposed to be a conductor on the interurban, but whose name she claimed not to know stopped at the house during the forenoon and spent some time. He had a revolver and a bottle of whiskey. He left the former with her and there seemed to the officer indications that he had left part of the contents of the bottle also. The marshal brought the gun to headquarters. Mrs. Goens was divorced from her husband in March.

TO REFORM SCHOOL

Millard Adams Sent There.—Two
Other Boys Released on Bond.

Millard Adams, the thirteen year old boy who was sent to the county jail Monday after acknowledging participation in the theft of a small amount of money at Rudolph Bahner's Machine Shops, was returned to Seymour this morning by direction of Judge Shea. The latter sentenced him to the Reform School at Plainfield. He had been out for several weeks under a suspended sentence imposed by Judge Shea.

The other two boys, John Enoch Harrison, Jr. and Harry Jones, who were sent to Brownstown with Adams were released on bond and will be given a hearing during the next term of the circuit court. They were returned from Brownstown by an officer this morning. The night at Brownstown had a tendency to cool their spirits but young Adams was as frisky as though headed for a Sunday School picnic.

Judge Shea gave John Enoch Harrison, Jr. a hearing today and he was sentenced to the Reform School with Millard Adams. He was taken to Plainfield this afternoon.

ROOM TO GROW.

Tunnelton is To Have a New Addition.
Boosting Fever.

The boosting spirit seems to have broken loose in Tunnelton and the residents of the town have visions of a big city. The town is to have a new addition that will doubtless afford sites for all the new houses that will be built this year and possibly next, and it is barely possible there may even be a few choice sites left in still another year.

Mrs. Lillie Collier, of Louisville, a daughter of Alfred Guthrie, of Tunnelton, owns a tract of land containing eighteen acres adjoining the town where she was born and has decided to plat it into town lots, which she will put upon the market. The eighteen acres will make sixty lots and if all of them are sold and houses built on them the population of Tunnelton will be more than doubled. James Cares of Bedford is now surveying and laying out the new addition.

USED OLD BARLOW

Farmer It is Alleged Slashed Neighbor With Pocket Knife.

The report comes that two well known men living near Bartlettville in the northeast part of Lawrence county had serious trouble Saturday night. George Covey and George Adams, had been sitting up with a sick neighbor. They had always been friends but on the way home from the neighbor's, a difficulty arose between them and it is alleged that Covey used his old barlow on Adams, cutting a deep gash on the latter's face and neck.

The wound is not considered very serious but is not an attractive or comfortable decoration.

The prosecutor was notified and has ordered the filing of an affidavit in the case.

Shoes

Some one asked me the other day why I did not change my tune. I was always soloing on the same old strain. But he does not buy children's shoes. The old songs always win in the end because they have truth behind them. Where is the song you heard last night, you went out of the theatre humming them and thought they were the real thing, but this morning the "Old Oaken Bucket" and "Home Sweet Home" would warm your heart, when you would not speak to one of these silly ones if you met it on the street. The song that is sung today was sung yesterday and will be sung tomorrow, is the one that carries conviction, it does so because it has the stuff behind it. The advertisement that hasn't leather behind it, doesn't make business.

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape
When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, of this city, "and have a heap to do."

"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors."

"You don't know half how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."

Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay up trouble in your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

ANAEMIA AND WEAKNESS

Constantly Being Cured by Vinol. An Interesting Case Reported.

Greensboro, N. C.—"I would not take a thousand dollars for the good Vinol has done me."

"I was told that cod liver oil was the medicine I needed for poor blood and my weakened condition. I could not take the greasy mixture, but when my druggist explained to me that Vinol contained all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, without the grease, and tonic iron added, I made up my mind that Vinol was the medicine for me."

"I tried it and today am strong and well.—Mrs. J. T. Snider." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

Vinol is a specific for impure, impoverished blood and it is the greatest tonic we know of.

New York, April 4.—"Lady Betty" Perry Beatrice Faulkner Chapman Pierce, wife of Roy, the son of Henry Clay Pierce, millionaire oil producer of Texas, has declared her intention to begin a contest to regain her husband from Dr. MacDonald's sanatorium. She drew a sharp breath and added, straightening up with determination, "I am going to get back my husband."

Those blue eyes, with lights of agate green in them, which men of consequence in various countries have been mad about, shone with an emotion.

"I love my husband, and I shall get him back. It's shameful to say that any money settlement has been proposed to me. There will be no money settlement. Money is nothing when you have sufficient to get along; but love—that is everything."

A dispatch from Central Valley, N. Y., says: "Roy E. Pierce, patient at Dr. MacDonald's sanatorium for eight weeks past, has been walking and automobiling about the village without attendants. Villagers who talked to him say that he showed no signs of mental incapacity."

SIXTEEN-HOUR LAW IS UPHELD

Federal Court Declares Reasonable Legislation.

RAILWAY ADMITS CHARGES

The B. & O. S.-W. Fined For Violation of the Sixteen-Hour Law Regarding the Length of Time Members of a Train Crew May Be Continuously Employed—The Company Confessed Judgment After Testing the Law.

Indianapolis, April 4.—For violation of the sixteen-hour law regarding the length of time members of a train crew may be continuously employed, judgments totalling $225 against the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway company have been rendered in federal court by Judge Anderson. The suit brought by District Attorney Miller to recover the statutory penalties, charged that the defendant company ran a train engaged in interstate commerce from Cone, Ill., to Washington, Ind., violating the law by keeping the engineer, fireman and conductor on duty longer than the statutory maximum of hours.

The company after filing pleadings testing the technical aspects of the case, filed an answer admitting the charges, and judgments were entered. Five other cases against railroads for violating the "endurance statute" are pending. The L. & N., shortly after the suits were filed, attacked the constitutionality of the statute on the grounds of class legislation and unreasonable and unjust classification, but Judge Anderson held otherwise.

Anderson, Ind., April 4.—James Walker, aged twenty-seven, of Alexandria, under indictment for murder in the first degree for the killing of two policemen of Alexandria on the night of March 4, while resisting arrest, is making a fight for his life on the plea of insanity.

The trial of Walker has begun in the Madison circuit court. Before the examination of the talesmen began the attorney for paupers, appointed to defend Walker, filed a plea of insanity.

Walker's counsel says testimony will be given by experts and others to show that Walker was insane when he killed Patrolman Kirkman, and a few minutes later shot Chief of Police Ellis, who died the day after.

Shoals, Ind., April 4.—One of the most peculiar situations relative to saloon licenses yet reported has come to light in Martin county. At the last election in Loogootee the total vote received by the candidates for mayor, the highest vote, was 499. There were reported nine ballots spoiled in casting. The question which has arisen is whether Loogootee will have four saloons or five saloons. Attorneys are divided in opinion as to whether the law means the total number of votes counted or the total number of ballots cast.

Bad Wreck on the Wabash.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 4.—A passenger train on the Chicago and Toledo branch of the Wabash railway was derailed at Eddy, Ind. The engine, combination car and chair car were derailed, but not overturned. Three passengers and three trainmen were injured, none of them fatally. Engineer Luxton was pinned beneath the wreckage of the locomotive, and was not extricated for more than three hours. Spreading rails caused the wreck.

Fled From Heinous Charge.

Bloomington, Ind., April 4.—Squire Thomas, aged sixty, is a fugitive, following the death of his seventeen-year-old stepdaughter, Ethel Stewart, from blood poisoning. The girl made a statement charging that her stepfather had mistreated her since she was twelve years old. Physicians told the girl that she must die, and she selected pall-bearers and flower-bearers from among her school friends.

WOULDN'T STAND FOR THE NEGRO TROOPS

Texans Secure An Order for Their Withdrawal.

Washington, April 4.—According to an announcement made by Representative Garner of Texas, following a conference with President Taft at the White House, the negro troops now stationed at San Antonio are to be withdrawn. Representative Garner protested against the presence of the negro soldiers at San Antonio, declaring that they had been the cause of a good deal of trouble in the Texas city.

As soon as the president was informed of the facts, according to Mr. Garner, he said that he would direct that the negro regiment—the Ninth cavalry—be assigned to another station. According to Mr. Garner's representations, and by him conveyed to the president, the Ninth cavalrymen have showed resentment over the law requiring them to ride in Jim Crow cars. As a result there have been scenes of disorder in San Antonio and citizens of that city urged the Texas delegation to ask the government to transfer the Ninth to some other station.

None of the Texas members feared a repetition of the Brownsville affair, where negro troopers "shot up" the town, provoking one of the extraordinary incidents of the Roosevelt administration. The orders in regard to the Ninth will be carried out at once according to Mr. Garner.

Stylish Suits With New Features.

Furnished by Pictorial Review
The Pictorial Review Bldg.

222-224-226 West 39th Street, New York City.

At each revolution of fashion's wheel every one feverishly asks about the new coat suits. The all important question now is skirts, of course. Changes in coats have gone on gradually all Winter, so that the watchful ones are prepared even for the twenty-one inch coat and the smart little bolero. But the skirt problem is an absorbing one.

There is no sign of full skirts. The tailor-made silhouette is as straight up and down as it has been, though it is much more graceful. Plaits are concealed somewhere in the lower part of many of the new models, which unfold with the movements of the wearer. They are deep plaits, but are so well pressed that they fall back in place when the person is not moving, and she seems to have on one of the tight skirts.

Some of the chic little jackets with these close, plain skirts are of the bolero type, jackets that years ago would have been called Etons. They are a fascinating feature of Spring styles and are made with sailor collars and sometimes with their short sleeves in one with the body.

The jacket that comes below the waistline is also short, but it attains a length of twenty-one or twenty-two inches. These make the figure appear straight and slender, no hips, no curves anywhere. The narrow shoulder effect is emphasized by the sleeves being in one with the body.

Long sleeves are generally seen in the longer jackets, unless it is a semi-dress suit; these usually have three-quarter length sleeves. Long wide silk or satin revers form a conspicuous trimming on suits and although not a new feature, they are so becoming and stylish that fashion designers hate to give them up.

PICTORIAL REVIEW patterns Nos. 3815-3816 lend themselves beautifully to the new silks and soft wool fabrics. By the way, satin will be quite popular this Spring for plain and dressy suits also for one-piece dresses.

Try a skirt would be lovely made up of blue French serge, turn back cuffs and revers of black satin or Peche Cygne. The skirt which is made with seven gores has the same charming simplicity which marks the coat. Its high waistline and left side closing are two good points.

The jacket which is in three-quarter length is perforated so that it may be cut short and comes in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. The skirt sizes are 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. It measures 1½ yards around the lower edge. The entire costume in medium size requires 4½ yards of 54 inch material.

An excellent type of what will be worn in the new Spring suits is shown in PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERNS Nos. 3814-3815 which offer a wide range of possibilities in their development. Opportunities for the clever manipulation of materials and trimmings will be found in this suit. The costume combines the best lines of the coming season's models and yet hasn't any given style. It is one of those rare patterns which may be made up either for street wear or with more elaborate combinations of fabrics for matinees and semi-dress occasions. The deep lapels give it a delightfully girlish effect.

Jacket sizes are 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Skirt sizes are 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. The entire costume in medium size requires 4½ yards of 54 inch material.

Price of Patterns including cutting and construction guides are 15 cents each number.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

Are tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. Mrs. Annie She-walter, Wabash, Ind., says, "Last winter I suffered a great deal from a severe backache which was due to kidney trouble. However, one bottle of Foley Kidney Pills entirely relieved me and I have never been bothered since. I can recommend Foley Kidney Pills to anyone suffering in this way as a quick and permanent cure." A. J. Pellens.

Prof. Mills, who formerly lived in the western part of Jennings county, has been engaged for another year as head of the mathematics department in Highland College at Highland, Kansas. He has made good there and is pleased with his position and the west.

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.

Mrs. F. Martin, St. Joe, Mich., says "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time." A. J. Pellens.

THE HALL OF FAME.

JAMES KENT—Law writer and jurist; author of Kent's Commentaries.

Born Philadelphia, Putnam county, N. Y., July 31, 1763; died New York Dec. 12, 1847. Graduated from Yale, studied law and, after serving three terms in New York state assembly, moved to New York city and became professor of law in Columbia college. Was successively recorder of the city of New York, justice of the supreme court, chief justice and chancellor. Retired at the age of sixty and again became professor of law at Columbia, his lectures being published and expanded into the famous "Commentaries." It has been said that this work has had a deeper and more lasting influence on the formation of our national character than any other secular book of the last century.

HERE'S HOPE FOR "SUFFRAGETTES"

London Enters Lists As Woman's Champion.

HAS A HISTORIC PARALLEL

Action of the London City Corporation in Petitioning Parliament to Pass the Suffrage Bill Recalls the Famous Petition of Another Lord Mayor Which Secured the Release of Land Leaguers.

London, April 4.—The corporation of the city has entered the lists as a champion of woman's suffrage. At a special meeting it passed a resolution by a vote of 22 to 9, which is to be sealed with the city's official seal.

"We hereby petition parliament," says the resolution, "to pass at the present session the woman's suffrage bill now before it, that the lord mayor, together with the other civic officers, go to present the petition at the bar of the house of commons and that the reasonable expenses of the lord mayor and the civic officials be defrayed from the borough fund."

The petition was granted. Another lord mayor had equal success when he petitioned Dublin castle to release the land leaguers.

SUPERFLUOUS INFORMATION

It Was Unnecessary to Say These Heirs Were Indignant.

Buchanan, Mich., April 4.—Hodson Burton, before his death five years ago, took the novel method of telling where his wealth of several thousand dollars was hidden by talking into a phonograph and having the record filed away with his will in a lawyer's safe. Here it was to remain for five years. The will told the heirs he had planted his fortune and his own voice would tell them the exact location.

Yesterday the heirs gathered at the home of his son, Luke Burton, to hear what the phonograph had to say. When they had all seated themselves, the arrival of the lawyer with the record was announced. He unwrapped the precious article in the kitchen. Each one in the parlor craned his neck, held his breath and gazed at mental pictures of mansions, motor cars and aeroplanes.

Just as the lawyer stepped through the door into the room where they were, he carelessly tripped over a footstool, fell and broke the record into so many pieces that it was impossible to get it to say a word. The heirs are indignant.

AGAINST RAILROADS

Two Important Decisions Rendered by the Supreme Court.

Washington, April 4.—In two very important decisions just rendered the United States supreme court has upheld the government and ruled against the railroads.

One opinion gives vitality to the commodities clause in the Hepburn railway act amending the interstate commerce act; the other holds that "forwarding companies" are entitled to the rates given for "carload shipments" in the freight classification territory east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio. Both opinions were ready by Chief Justice White and concurred in by the entire court.

They Let Him Go.

Laredo, Tex., April 4.—Salvador Madero, the brother of Francisco Madero, the brother of Francisco I. Madero, sr., and uncle of the provisional president of Mexico, who was arrested upon his arrival in Nuevo Laredo, across the river in Mexican territory, was released upon order from the City of Mexico.

Washington's Sword Undamaged.

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—The sword presented to General George Washington by Frederick the Great was found undamaged under a heap of charred books in the ruins of the library after the fire at the state capitol.

Cox Turned Up All Right.

Cincinnati, April 4.—George B. Cox, after three days' absence following the return of a fresh indictment charging him with perjury, appeared in court. Bond was furnished in the sum of $1,000.

THE REV. DR. JOWETT

Who Has Come From England With a Message to Gotham.

"WHAT A HARVEST FOR THE REAPER"

This Is Dr. Jowett's First Impression of Gotham.

New York, April 4.—The Rev. John Henry Jowett's first message of his new ministry in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church was on "The Compassion of Christ for the Multitudes," and indicated the minister, who has been said to be the "greatest living preacher in England," would bend his energies toward developing the institutional and home missionary work of the church along conservative lines.

"I wonder if I am right in asking what the Lord would say now," said Dr. Jowett. "If He were to come to New York He would find men worried, dissatisfied and exhausted. If He saw the crowd He would say, 'Fainting sheep. What a harvest for the reaper.'"

THE PLAGUE'S RAVAGES

Official Report of the Terrible Mortality in Manchuria.

Washington, April 4.—Mail dispatches from Mukden give official statistics of plague cases in that city and other parts of Manchuria. The total number of cases in Mukden up to Feb. 14 was reported as 1,043. The total number of deaths up to Feb. 18 was given as 1,028. The total number of deaths in Manchuria up to Feb. 15 was given as 12,083, but this is probably only a rough estimate and does not in any case include the deaths in the towns along the Russian and Japanese railways, which probably amount to as many more.

The plague has appeared at nearly every town along the railways from Changchun west to Chinchou and south to Liaoyang. The number of deaths daily at Changchun is estimated at 200.

CURIOSITY REWARDED

These Boys Wanted to See Why Dynamite Didn't Explode.

West Liberty, Ky., April 4.—John Phillip and Leonard Henry, each aged fifteen years, were killed by a dynamite explosion near here.

Workmen in a railroad cut had left a chest of dynamite unlocked. The boys procured about twelve sticks and placed them on a grade, covered them with stone and ignited the fuse. After waiting for some time, they concluded the fuse had gone out, and were making investigations when the explosion occurred.

The bodies were frightfully mutilated, part of Phillip's body not being recovered.

State Admits Lack of Evidence.

Newcastle, Ind., April 4.—The charge of murder against Mrs. Etta L. Johnson, growing out of the death of her husband, George E. Johnson in this city on Aug. 16, has been dismissed in the circuit court. The prosecutor cited to the court that the evidence against Mrs. Johnson was not sufficient to warrant the state to enter into a trial.

Didn't Press the Charge.

New York, April 4.—When Albert Ulrich, who was arrested on a charge of beating Booker T. Washington, was arraigned in the court of special sessions he pleaded not guilty and was allowed to go on bail. No date was set for his trial. Dr. Washington did not appear to press the assault charge against him.

Torpedoes Will Finish It Up.

Norfolk, Va., April 4.—On April 25 nine torpedo boats will open fire on the old battleship Texas now lying in the mud in Chesapeake bay as the result of the bombardment she received from the big guns of the New Hampshire two weeks ago.

WIDE PROGRAM NOW PROPOSED

Congress May Not Stick to Subject of Csl.

THINGS CALL FOR ACTION

With the Convening of the Special Session Called to Consider Canadian Reciprocity, It Is Apparent That Other Objects Will Demand Attention and That the Congress Is Likely to Be in Session All Summer.

Washington, April 4.—President Taft's message to congress, which assembled in extra session today, is to be exceedingly brief, dealing only with Canadian reciprocity. It will be sent to congress tomorrow.

Washington, April 4.—With the Democrats in control of the lower house for the first time in sixteen years, the special session of the Sixty-second congress called by President Taft to consider the subject of reciprocal trade relations with Canada, was convened today.

Organization was effected by the election of Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, speaker; South Trimble of Kentucky, clerk; U. S. Jackson of Indiana, sergeant-at-arms; Joseph J. Sinnott of Virginia, doorkeeper; William M. Dunbar of Georgia, postmaster, and Rev. Henry N. Couden of Michigan, chaplain. The Republican vote was cast for James R. Mann of Illinois for speaker.

Outline of the Program.

Everybody here realizes that the legislative program laid down by the Democrats means that congress will be here all summer unless the Republicans in the senate shall consent to accept the major part of this program. The present indications are that the Republican senate will be opposed to nearly every legislative proposition put forward by the Democrats. This is certainly true as far as the conservative wing of the Republican majority in the senate is concerned. It is possible that a joint resolution submitting an amendment to the legislation providing for the election of senators by direct vote may be put through the senate after it has been adopted by the house. The insurgent Republican senators are committed to such a resolution, and in co-operation with the Democrats to pass it.

The long drawn out fight in the senate will be over Canadian reciprocity and the revision of the textile schedules, and possibly other schedules of the Aldrich-Payne tariff law. It is the program of the Democrats to put tariff ahead in the house of representatives. Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee believes the house will send a bill putting into effect Canadian reciprocity, and a bill revising the wool schedule over to the senate not later than the middle of May. He wishes to get some of the tariff legislation to the senate by May 1, if possible.

It is proposed by the Democratic house to pass with promptness a resolution approving the constitution of the new states of New Mexico and Arizona. Some of the Democrats in the senate, notably Senator Bailey, are opposed to this house program. Senator Bailey has given notice that he will oppose the approval of the Arizona constitution as long as it contains a provision for the recall of judges.

Certain Inquiries on Foot.

The Democrats in the house will not run wild on investigations, but it is proposed to institute certain inquiries. The first of these will have to do with the executive departments, and will relate specifically to expenditures. These investigations are to be made by committees that have heretofore been regarded as inactive, committees that have gone under the title of "committees on expenditures in the departments."

Some of the more important of these investigations, if they are made, will be in the charge of members from Indiana. Representative Cox is the new chairman of the committee on expenditures of the treasury department, Representative Moss chairman of the committee on expenditures in the agricultural department and Representative Cline chairman of the committee on expenditures on public buildings. Each of these chairmen is already planning an inquiry.

The Democrats in the house propose to proceed with caution. Every important piece of legislation reported by a committee will be submitted to a caucus of all the Democratic members before it is brought into the house. This policy will be pursued throughout.

The Republican Caucus.

Washington, April 4.—The party caucus of Republican members of the house of representatives held here last night was a fairly harmonious gathering. Representatives James R. Mann of Illinois was named as minority leader. There was no opposition to his candidacy.

Representative Currier of New Hampshire was re-elected chairman of the caucus and Kendall of Iowa secretary. Representative Dwight of New York was re-elected Republican whip.

AEROPLANE BUILT ON ENTIRELY NEW PLAN

Hoosier Inventors Claim Big Margin of Safety.

Marion, Ind., April 3.—Within the next month what is perhaps the first monoplane ever constructed in Indiana will be tried out in Grant county, according to its builders, Burr and George Custer and George D. Chambers of this city, who have been working on the craft for several months.

Mr. Chambers, who is superintending the construction of the machine, stated it would be finished within the next two weeks, and that he expects to make the first flight before the first of May. The Bleriot model has been patterned after by the builders of the Marion monoplane, although they have infused many of their own ideas into its construction. The local machine, which is built of Oregon spruce, is 27 feet long from nose to rudder, which is about five feet longer than other monoplanes. The distance from the tips of each wing is 28 feet, which is also a margin of several feet over other machines. The weight of the craft is about 600 pounds, and it is equipped with a forty-horsepower motor.

Messrs. Custer and Chambers are making claims for their machine in the way of new features which, they say, no other machine has. One man can fly the monoplane, owing to the fact that the engine can be cranked when the passenger is in the machine and no help is required at the rear. In the event that the engine should stop while in the air the elevators can be lowered both at the rear and in front, and while the machine is gliding to earth, and the operator can crank the engine and continue his journey without landing. The front elevators have in them a new feature of safety in the event of a fall.

Women's Easter Outer Apparel

Exclusive style, superior workmanship, fabrics that are different—constituting every garment offered at the GOLD MINE. With Easter so close at hand, naturally every feminine mind is now occupied with the thought of Spring and Summer apparel. This week's comprehensive showing presents the greatest opportunities of this season from the standpoint of style and assortment.

COSTUMES, SUITS AND COATS

The display of Easter apparel in this department will be a revelation to you. We are showing, side by side, the ultra ideas of fashion and the modified styles that, after all, are the ones usually chosen. This section of the store is teeming with so many garments for Women's Spring and Easter wear that you can not fail to make a wholly satisfying choice.

THE NEW WAISTS

The most elaborate showing we have ever attempted; waists for every occasion, whether to wear with a separate skirt, the new tailor-made suit, or a more elaborate waist for dressier wear; you'll be sure to find a suitable style.

NEW NECKWEAR

With the present mode of feminine fashion the separate chemise, yoke, chemisette or collar has become a necessity. This department is exceptionally attractive in its showing of the newer novelties. Among these one will surely be interested in The Spring Maid Collar, The Charlotte Corda Collar, The English Fichu and those beautiful pieces of Irish crochet lace and hand embroidered neckwear.

EXQUISITE EASTER MILLINERY

Individuality is the keynote of our magnificent assembly of Trimmed Hats for Easter. Many of our most exquisite styles have no duplicates. Nor will they have this season. Among them are hats for all occasions—strictly tailored hats to carry out the Directorate note of the spring costumes, large picture hats for elaborate afternoon gowns, and lace and flower trimmed hats. A full and complete showing.

THE USEFUL SAFETY PIN.

It Can Be Employed in Many Ways About the Household.

Not even a hairpin is capable of so many uses outside its legitimate office as the safety pin. Like the hairpin, the safety pin may be employed to do what the needle is supposed always to do on well kept garments—fasten buttons and catch ripped facings. As a button fastener on a garment it has no rival for thoroughness, though it might not be well to whisper this fact to the girls who have not made the discovery for themselves and who are apt to find sleight of hand methods in mending.

But in the closet and wardrobe and the workbasket the safety pin finds its greatest usefulness. And right here why does not some enterprising manufacturer bring out safety pins that are fine enough to run through small button eyes? For in keeping buttons of the same kind apart from the riffraff of the usual button bag there is nothing like a safety pin—that is, when the eyes of the buttons are not too small to let the pin go through them.

Most women have washable waists and skirts from which the buttons have to be removed when they are sent to the laundry, and a mere safety pin will keep these together and save the wild excitement of finding that last button that is sure to disappear just at the most exasperating moment.

Half a dozen long, fine safety pins in the workbasket threaded with buttons of various kinds, hooks and eyes and the like will save trips to the button bag and prevent nervous search when one is in a hurry. Nothing will take the safety pin's place in the small traveling sewing receptacle. A small pin will take on all the buttons one can possibly need for an ordinary trip, and another will hold together the hooks and eyes that may be required.

For the closet, especially in traveling or visiting, a few safety pins will make themselves very useful. If there are not tapes on skirts—and there never are these days—a pin catching both sides of the skirt together at each side the front and then these pins caught on two hooks in the closet will do better service than the usual skirt hanger.

TESTING EGGS

By Candling.—How The Different Grades Appear.

A local egg dealer says that the campaign which the Purdue agricultural experiment station is waging to induce farmers and dealers to exercise more care in the selection and sale of eggs is one that ought to have good results.

A. G. Phillips, associate in poultry husbandry has just sent out the following bulletin which is full of valuable information:

"Not long ago it was stated that the eggs in Indiana were not bought according to quality, but at a flat rate of so much per dozen. However, when these eggs are received by the buyer, he is compelled to go over them and select the best eggs for his best trade.

"The method used for this selection of eggs is called 'Candling' or 'Testing.' The 'egg candle' or 'tester' is made of wood or metal and, as a rule, is kept in a dark room. A light, inside the tester shines through an opening, in front of which an egg is held by the candler. By a quick movement of the hand, the condition of the contents of the egg is quickly noted and the egg is placed in its proper class. A good candler works rapidly and will test a large number of eggs in a day.

"Eggs are sometimes graded as follows:

Extras. Weight 28 to 26 ounces, naturally and absolutely clean, fresh and sound, same color. (a grade seldom used.)

Firsts. Weight 26 to 24 ounces, sound fresh and reasonably clean.

Seconds. Shrunken, stale, washed, stained, and dirty.

Checks. Cracked, not leaking.

Rots. Incubator, blood rings, dead germs, and decomposed eggs.

All eggs should be bought and sold on this grading system so that an egg will bring what it is worth.

When the candler tests the eggs he bases his judgment on the following indications:

Fresh. Opaque, appearing almost entirely free of any contents, sometimes, dim outline of yolk visible, air cell very small.

Stale. Outline of yolk plainly visible, sometimes muddy in appearance, air cell very large.

Developed Germ. Dark spot visible, from which radiate light colored blood vessels.

Dead Germ. Dark spot attached to shell, or red ring of blood, visible.

Rotten. Muddy or very dark in appearance, yolk and white mixed, air cell large and sometimes movable.

Cracked. White lines showing irregularly in shell.

"Testing as above suggested will aid one in determining absolutely, the quality of the eggs, not only for marketing, but for incubation. The farmer should demand that his eggs be bought upon the test. The buyer should co-operate with farmers and meet such demands by buying 'loss off.'"

Recent changes in the Pure Food law make it unlawful to sell or offer for sale, eggs which are putrid, de-

Getting Tobacco Smoke Out of the Draperies.

Many women who do not in the least object to the odor of fresh cigar or even cigarette smoke about the house find the stale after odor that hangs in draperies and furnishings intolerable. The window of a room where smokers sit should always be dropped an inch or two from the top, for the light smoke rises and is sucked out through this aperture. When the room has become permeated with the smoke from several cigars or cigarettes close it up tightly and place on the floor a large tub of cold water in which float bits of straw pulled from a broom. The straw and water for some reason absorb all the stale odor, and when the windows are thrown open next morning the air of the room will be fresh and pure.

The Proper Sized Broom.

A heavy broom should be chosen for thorough sweeping in preference to a light one, for the weight adds to the process. To test a new broom press the edge against the floor. If the straws bristle out and bend the broom is a poor one and should be rejected. They should remain in a firm, solid mass.

CHAPTER XV.

VALENTINE broke the silence. "But to prove so important a matter so suddenly—on a second's notice—why, no man on earth can—Wait. If I happen to have that scrap book here; I brought it down one day, and if—he opened a drawer—here it is. Of course there may be nothing here on the exact date you mention." The last doubtfully.

"What's this?" "A scrap book. I suppose all people are the same about this little vanity," whimsically. "You doubtless cut out the first clippings about yourself you ever saw in print. There—no, that's

VALENTINE SHUFFLED THE PAGES BACK.

1907." Doyle came to him. Valentine shuffled the pages back. "Well, that's pretty close—that's in March, 1906. I made a speech that night. What was that date again?"

"Well, by"—began Doyle, completely nonplused.

"That was a pretty good speech," commented Valentine, pointing to another clipping—"second one I ever made. The first, what was that date—February what?"

"Ninth," Doyle rose impatiently. "This is too good," put in Valentine. "Here, look here." He indicated the picture on the wall. "Who is that as big as life there? It's been staring us both in the face ever since you've been here."

Doyle went to the photograph. "That was on Feb. 9, 1906—why, yes, the photographer even dated it."

"Is this you?" Doyle pointed to one of the figures in the group.

"Well, look at it. If this Valentine was in prison that must be me. You said yourself that Sing Sing doesn't allow boarders to go visiting."

Doyle stepped back in front of Valentine's desk.

"You can alibi yourself into hell, Valentine, but you can't get away from that scar on your left wrist."

Doyle had reserved this telling shot for a critical moment.

"I never had a scar on my left wrist," the other returned jubilantly.

"Let's see," the detective snapped unbelievably.

"But that proves nothing." Valentine drew back as he spoke. He appeared unwilling to permit Doyle to make an examination of his wrist.

"Let me see, I tell you. It's got to be shown sooner or later. Delay won't get you anything." Doyle was forcing the fighting now. He was certain that he had Valentine cornered.

The assistant cashier thrust his hands behind his back.

"Don't you realize," he said triumphantly, "that that is a very old-fashioned method of identification? Don't you know that since the introduction of a horsehair in sewing wounds there is never a scar?" He smiled irritatingly at Doyle.

As a reply the detective bent swiftly across the desk, seized Valentine's arm and drew his left hand toward him.

"Could an old scar be opened and sewed with horsehair and disappear?" he asked dazedly as he saw the wrist was unmarked by any indication of a scar.

"I don't know; I presume so," indifferently.

Doyle was silent. This last denouement disconcerted him more than had anything else. An idea came to him. He lunged forward, clutching Valentine's right hand in his own, and jerked it across the desk. "Was it the left wrist that was scarred?" he cried.

He pushed back the cuff, but the surface of the right wrist was as smooth and as unbroken as the other. "Anything else I can do for you?" asked the assistant cashier calmly as Doyle let go his hand.

"By —, that's funny!" murmured Doyle. He looked across the room to the picture on the wall. He drew a magnifying glass from his coat pocket and stepped before the handsomely framed photograph once more. He passed the lens up and down and across, over the face of the photograph, then wheeled about and faced Jimmy Valentine.

"Mr. Randall," he said apologetically, "you must excuse my mistake—my most unfortunate mistake—and I trust that you will overlook my ungentelemanly manners. I now realize that I have been making insinuations against an entirely innocent man. You of course realize the difficulties of my profession—how in dealing with the brightest criminal brains in the world we cannot avoid making errors at times, but—his face glowed pride—"I will say in justice to myself that this is the first mistake of the kind I have ever made."

"Quite true—quite true, I am sure, my dear sir," commented Jimmy Valentine condescendingly. "I can see that you are exceptionally able in your line. Some day if we ever have a loss here through thievery I shall be most glad to recommend you to the directors, and I am sorry that you feel so embarrassed at your error regarding me."

"Oh, cut that! Don't worry about me," said Doyle vengefully. "Wait till I put the bracelets on the real Jimmy Valentine, then save your sympathy for him. He'll pay for this day's work. It's all through him that I made a sucker out of myself today. Mr. Randall, and when I get him he's going to 'come through,' which means confess."

Doyle paused for breath and concluded, "I'm on the biggest job of my whole career, and when I finish it I'll have the real Jimmy Valentine sewed up in a little stone Jug 6 by 8, without light or fresh air, and what he'll get to eat would make a pit bull terrier turn vegetarian."

Valentine in spite of the danger that attended his situation could not resist the temptation to continue the conversation with Doyle. It was dangerous—no doubt as to that. At any moment the young man might let drop a word or a hint that would betray himself into his enemy's hands by confirming the detective's suspicions.

But the daring Valentine relished the spice of excitement in the situation. He played with the detective as a cat with a squeaking mouse.

"To be sure, you do not promise this man Jimmy Valentine a very merry time of it when you finally land him," Valentine said. "I am glad I am not he."

Doyle laughed grimly.

"The resemblance is the most startling I have ever encountered," he answered. "You are perhaps a trifle taller—a half inch, maybe—but, aside from that and the wrist scar, you and Valentine are exact."

"YOU MUST WANT HIM BADLY."

"I should hate to have so clever a man as you hunting me, Mr. Doyle," he went on, "and from what you say I assume you have been after him some time."

"Nearly three years," the detective grunted angrily.

"Well, that's quite awhile. You must want him badly."

Doyle bent toward the other and pounded his fist into his opened palm. "He is the one man who can open a safe by the sense of touch," he explained.

Blank amazement came into the face of the assistant cashier.

"Why, that's not possible, is it?" he asked incredulously.

"Doesn't sound so—we never thought so—but Jimmy Valentine has done it repeatedly. The first year he worked we thought the jobs were done from the inside—employees or officers of the bank. Then we got him by a confession of his pal, and a fool governor pardoned him." Doyle growled disgustedly.

"Well, if he was pardoned—"

The detective brushed the suggestion aside.

"I want him for another job, one that I can convict him on now and couldn't before the first conviction."

"You will doubtless get him, Mr. Doyle," confidently.

"Doubtless. It's a life work to land him. He's the most dangerous man loose."

"It doesn't seem possible that a man could have so delicate a sense of touch," said Valentine innocently, continuing to "play" Doyle as an angler plays a brook trout.

"He has," with an angry snort. "It's been the ambition of my life to see him work—to catch him red handed."

"Well, for the sake of the community at large I hope you do. By the way, Mr. Doyle, as you have never seen this—er—Mr. Valentine work, how do you know that he uses nothing but his hands in opening safes?"

"Oh, we have a general idea about his system. He keeps his hands tender, soft, sensitive, and through a faculty seeming almost miraculous he is able to detect the movement of the tumblers that lock the safe as he turns the dials of the combination."

This much we learned from one Red Flanagan, alias Tim Cronin, alias the 'White Rat,' the pal that Valentine took up with after he killed another pal named Cotton. Flanagan's right name is Jim. He did a bit at Joliet, and I think I'll be able to get him to testify against Valentine when I get him sewed up in Boston. What? Oh, yes; Red was always known as the 'White Rat' until he took to dyeing his hair vermilion."

Doyle looked at his watch. He nodded a farewell to Valentine and wheeled toward the door. He stopped momentarily and asked permission to "take another flash at that picture on the wall." Valentine gave his assent and watched the detective curiously. Doyle stepped in front of the photograph, took out his magnifying glass, a powerful reading glass, and again made a minute examination of the scene in the banquet hall, with "Mr. Lee Randall" sitting at the right of the toastmaster.

He turned, shot a searching look at Valentine and then drew close to the latter's desk.

"By the way," he said, "on my way out I'll stop and explain to the—"

"Mr. Lane, the president," reminded Valentine.

"Yes. I want to apologize for making accusations against you. Good day, Mr. Randall."

"Good day, Mr. Doyle."

Doyle stepped out into the hallway. As he drew the door toward him to close it he leaned forward and peered through the crack. He saw Valentine standing at his desk, and he also saw the young man's breast heave as though he was sighing in relief as at the ending of a trying ordeal.

"I WANT TO APOLOGIZE," SAID DOYLE.

Just as he was about to close the door and depart the door leading from the vault room into the assistant cashier's office burst violently open. Doyle heard the crash, and he also heard what followed it—a frenzied voice, an agonized voice, crying "Jimmy, Jimmy!"

"Jimmy!" Then that's his name, after all; it's Valentine! gasped the detective, pushing the door open to better learn what was transpiring.

The voice was the voice of Red Flanagan, who, followed by little Bobby Lane, had rushed frantically into the room.

"Jimmy," screamed Red, his eyes bulging outward in horror, "Bobby's locked Kitty in the new vault! We can't get her out!"

Valentine turned on Red like a panther.

"Where is the combination? Quick, man, quick!"

"The builders haven't sent it yet. Nobody knows it," choked Red.

Bobby threw himself into Valentine's arms, sobbing convulsively.

"I didn't mean to do it," he cried hysterically. "I didn't mean to—I didn't know Kitty hid in the vault, and I thought—I didn't know. I pretended not to and shut the door to scare her. Then just in fun I turned the knob—"

"Good God, that baby!" groaned Valentine, wringing his hands and starting toward the vault room.

"You can do it," urged Red. "I'll clear the bank—just you and me. For God's sake, open that vault or that baby will die like a rat!" Red fell on his knees before Valentine and pleaded heartbrokenly for his old time safe-breaking accomplice to use once again the skill that had made his name a synonym for success in the underworld.

Valentine hesitated, as well he might, considering the hazardous nature of his position. If any one but Red should see him open the safe—see him at work—all hope of further concealing the nature of his occupation in the past would be destroyed. And Doyle, who wanted to "see Jimmy Valentine work," was even now in the bank building—might return to Valentine's office at any moment, reasoned the assistant cashier.

"Kitty mustn't die—she mustn't—she mustn't!" sobbed Bobby.

Valentine's face set determinedly. He tore off his coat and, rolling up his sleeves, dashed out into the vault room.

"I know! I'll do it! I'll do it!" he cried.

Detective George Doyle smiled sardonically as he softly withdrew from behind the partly opened door which had sheltered him from the view of the frantic actors in the tragedy that had been enacted in the assistant cashier's office. He walked swiftly down the hall.

"Jimmy Valentine, Jimmy Valentine," he muttered vengefully, "you've got your laugh! Now I'll have mine. I've got you now. I'm going to get you red handed!"

CHAPTER XVI.

THE room in the Fourth National bank of Springfield, Ill., in which the new vault had been constructed, was a large, somber inclosure, with a door at one side, opening from the assistant cashier's office, and one directly opposite, which led to a narrow hallway opening into the main hall.

Along this narrow hallway were doors opening into the offices of various officials of the bank. The vaults in which were kept the currency and negotiable papers, bonds, stocks, notes, etc., were on the floor below, and the new vault built against the wall at the rear of the room was designed as a receptacle for the bank's books of account. Therefore it had a larger interior than an ordinary vault, and as the shelves had not yet been built in there were several feet of free space inside, which would be occupied by books and records later on.

The huge steel ribbed door had been left invitingly open by the workmen engaged in adding the finishing touches, and consequently it afforded an unequalled source of delight to Bobby and Kitty, whose active imaginations readily converted the interior of the vault into the cave of daring smugglers who, presumably gone on a desperate enterprise, had left deserted their secret cavern and the precious contraband articles which, Bobby assured Kitty, were surely to be found therein. So what was there for a high spirited little girl to do, when her brother, who never failed at asserting his superiority over a mere girl and the superiority of the "men folk" in general, insisted that she go first into the yawning blackness of the big safe? Surely she must maintain the traditions of the fearlessness of her sex as she knew them and "take the dare" which Bobby forced upon her.

Slowly into the steel bound shadows she went, her waxen faced dolly clutched tightly against her throbbing bosom—yet in she went. Suddenly the huge door scraped shut. All was blackness. As she screamed in her fright she heard the click of the metal bars as Bobby playfully turned the handles. Then all was silent, save for the moans of the little girl as she lurched blindly toward the door of the safe and scratched the metal thicknesses with her tiny nails.

The dolly fell to the floor, the ends of the soft little fingers began to bleed from frozen contact with the bars that ribbed the interior of the safe door, and after a few moments the wee girl's form sank limply to the bottom of the vault, where she gasped convulsively to breathe in the air that was gradually losing its life supporting qualities. Not many minutes would elapse ere she had consumed all the precious oxygen in the suffocating interior of the necessarily air tight vault.

As Jimmy Valentine dashed into the vault room he cried to Red Flanagan, who was at his heels:

"Go get one of the clerks to run for some sandpaper. Pumice stone is too soft for this job. My fingers are not in shape for a trick like this. Go! Run!"

Red turned and darted away on his urgent errand. Well he knew just how necessary it was for Jimmy Valentine to have sandpaper to rescue Kitty if it were true that the skin on his fingers had grown calloused or had reached even its natural thickness.

Jimmy Valentine pulled manfully at the handles of the vault door. Perhaps, after all, the combination had not been turned and only the door's weight held it in place. But the metal barrier would not move. He pressed his ear to the hairlike crack. He heard the sound of a little body falling to the floor and the faint moans of the prisoner calling, "Bobby, Bobby, Bobby!"

Valentine bent over the combination, peered sharply at it, then began to twirl the cylinders gently. Around and then back he turned the knob. No; it was of no use. Nothing could be done until the sandpaper arrived. His fingers had lost their sensitiveness and hence their cunning, and in the meantime Valentine well knew the prisoner was consuming whatever of the priceless air that remained.

The door leading from his office swung open, and again Red Flanagan darted in. He flung himself on the vault room floor directly below Valentine's knees and held his ear close to the crack of the safe door.

"Think you can make it, Jimmy?" he gasped.

"Guess so; never failed on a lock like this. Why, in God's name, don't that fool come with that sandpaper?" Valentine was desperate at the delay.

"He's gone to a—here he is!" cried Red as he heard hurrying footsteps in the assistant cashier's office. Red jumped to his feet and out into Valentine's room. He seized the roll of sandpaper from the messenger's hands.

"What are you going to do with it?" asked the inquisitive clerk.

Red shoved him away and darted back toward the vault room.

"None of your business," he cried, "and keep out of here."

"Give it here. What is it?" exclaimed Valentine as Red ran to him.

"No. 4."

"That's best. Is the bank empty?"

"Yes, thank God, Mr. Lane has gone. There's no one here to pipe what we're doing—and even if there was we'd just naturally have to go through with it—for that girl Kitty!"

"Shut up!" cried Valentine nervously. He bent over and rubbed his fingers briskly across the gritty surface of one of the sheets of sandpaper which Red had handed him—rubbed until the white flesh showed pink.

Red stood and watched him breathlessly. The sound of Valentine's fingers scraping back and forth across the face of the sandpaper seemed to his feverish brain the physical demonstration of an evil being, appalled him as a sinister omen of impending doom. He had heard a story of his old grandmother's, when a young lad, that often when a person was going to die a mysterious tick, tick, tick, tick would be heard in the fated house, the sound coming as though from a mysterious watch concealed in the wall—the "death tick." As the sound of the scraping fingers continued the zip, zip, zip, zip, echoed from the walls and smote into Red's ears and into Red's brain—an uncanny reminder of that long forgotten tale.

And, strangely enough, Red's premonition of the presence of an unseen menace was not without foundation in fact. It may be that this active career in the underworld had developed in him that sixth sense of the habitual thief which sometimes gives him warning of approaching dangers.

As Red stood there fascinatingly watching the rapid play of Valentine's fingers the door leading into the narrow hallway noiselessly opened—opened just enough to allow the sound of the scraping fingers to reach the ear pressed against the crack between the door and the jam. A few inches more of space and the face of George Doyle appeared in the doorway.

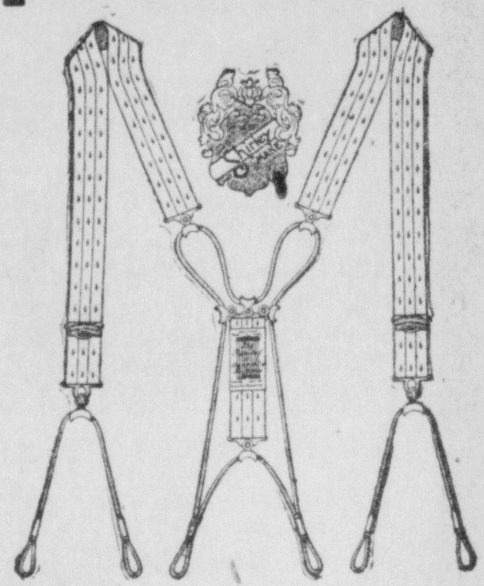

As the door on opening swung toward the rear of the chamber toward the vault, Doyle, shielded by it, was enabled to put one foot over the sill and stand half within the vault room. Pressing himself close against the door, he could watch in the darkened, shadowy room the operations of Red Flanagan and Mr. Lee Randall, alias Jimmy Valentine.

He saw the sheet of sandpaper flutter to the floor; he saw Valentine lick his fingers with his tongue to ease the burning pain that throbbled through them; he saw Red Flanagan drop on his knees and crouch against the door of the giant safe; he saw Valentine step forward, seize the combination with the tips of his fingers, press his ear against the vault and gently, caressingly, ever so gently, twirl the shining nickle knob of the combination.

George Doyle had his dearest wish gratified. At last he saw the great Jimmy Valentine at work.

HAVE YOU TRIED PAXTINE

The Great Toilet Germicide?

You don't have to pay 50c or $1.00 a pint for listerian antiseptics or peroxide. You can make 16 pints of a more cleansing, germicidal, healing and deodorizing antiseptic solution with one 25c box of Paxtine—a soluble antiseptic powder, obtainable at any drug store.

Paxtine destroys germs that cause disease, decay and odors—that is why it is the best mouth wash and gargle, and why it purifies the breath, cleanses and preserves the teeth better than ordinary dentifrices, and in sponge bathing it completely eradicates perspiration and other disagreeable body odors. Every dainty woman appreciates this and its many other toilet and hygienic uses.

Paxtine is splendid for sore throat, inflamed eyes and to purify mouth and breath after smoking. You can get Paxtine, Toilet Antiseptic at any drug store, price 25c and 50c or by mail postpaid from The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass., who will send you a free sample if you would like to try it before buying.

Home Course In Tree Preservation

By JOHN DAVEY
Father of Tree Surgery

III. — The Crime of Tree Butchery

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

IT is utterly impossible for the human mind to form even an opinion of the destruction of property by the "tree butcher." In many places the real estate values are 50 per cent less than what they might have been with good trees. As a result of the hacking and slashing the trees are not living a fifth of their natural life. An elm or maple should stand intact for 300 years. Barring the violence of tornadoes and such agencies, apple trees should be in a good state of bearing at 200 years, the pear at 300 and the oak at 1,000. But while the tree butcher is at large this same premature death will be continued.

NO. 5.—APPLE TREE DYING FROM CUTTING OFF BRANCHES.

For ten years I have been before the public as a writer and lecturer, and though the press is doing a noble work yet I see but one hope and that is to get the children to comprehend "tree life." I will send some reading matter free to parents who wish to have their children informed. But here is a phase which the parent can begin with. If you have not a little pocket microscope get one. Take different sticks and cut off with a sharp knife, then let the child look through the "scope," and the eye will be delighted to see the little cells opened up and appearing much like a honeycomb. These little cells communicate with one another, and when the water falls on them they are prepared to receive the spores of the various fungi. The fungi are a vegetable growth, and their mycelium or what answers to roots, penetrate the cell tissues, break them down and produce what we call "rot" or "decay." Millions of trees in forms and stages of disease can be found rapidly approaching death, as seen in No. 5. This is an apple tree, only about forty years old.

Or look at illustration No. 6, an apple tree about the same age. In both these cases the trouble arose from some one cutting off branches and leaving the wood exposed. Just as soon as the tissues are broken down by the parasite—the fungi—then the condition exists for the grubs, larvae and ants and all kinds of "crawling critters" to make their home in such a place. And can we blame them? No; we would do the same if we were ants or bugs. It is we who are to blame for wounding our friends, the trees, and opening up their noble bodies to decay and disease. See how the branch to the right in illustration No. 6 has been eaten away by insects. This is one of a whole orchard of apple trees in Sandusky, O., that went to pieces in a short time about fifteen months ago—an orchard of fine varieties of apples. There is an element of sadness about this, but the part that appeals to most people is the "dollar side." From a business standpoint, what a folly to allow ignorant men to reduce real estate values of property because they know enough to run a saw or wield an ax!

NO. 6.—APPLE TREE RUINED BY TOO MUCH PRUNING.

This is not, as a rule, maliciously done. It is often accomplished by good meaning people. Fifteen years ago I knew a good, honest Dutchman who "trimmed" an apple orchard for the "firewood." A year ago it cost $2,000 to repair the damage, and certainly the trees are vastly inferior to what they would have been had they not had their noble boles and branches hollowed by disease.

I call special attention to this phase of the subject and urge all parents to get the children interested in structural botany.

SECRET BURIED WITH DRUGGIST

Edward Wall Never Ventured From His Shop In Daylight.

KEPT VOW FOR 22 YEARS.

Never Rode on the "L," Trolley or Subway—Said to Have Been Jilted by a Girl—Thought It Bad Luck to Pick Up Money That Had Dropped on the Floor.

The life secret of Edward Wall, who ran an apothecary shop on New York's east side, was buried with him.

Wall was found dead of heart disease recently in his shop, the threshold of which he had not crossed during daylight in twenty-two years. According to policemen, Wall once in awhile would come forth at night and stand for a moment on the street corner, but this was at rare intervals, and he never remained long. He had never ridden on the "L," trolley or subway.

Jilted by a Girl?

His true name was Walz, and he came from Baden, Germany, fifty-seven years ago, when he was two years old. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York and went to work as a drug clerk in the store of which he came into possession upon the death of Dr. Fasen, his employer.

It was about this time—twenty-two years ago—that he made a vow never to come forth in the sunlight. The gossip of the neighborhood was that he had been jilted by a girl, but no confirmation of this was ever had from Wall.

One of Wall's idiosyncrasies—and he had a lot of them—was that it meant bad luck to pick up money that had been dropped on the floor. When the board of health ordered a cleanup of the shop four years ago the brooms revealed $37 odd lying under the papers and boxes on the floor.

Some of His Idiosyncrasies.

When he hired a clerk—and there were several of them—his first order was that he must never step behind the counter. Clerks were privileged to greet customers and take their orders, and Wall filled them behind the counter. The clerks served solely in an intermediary capacity. One of their duties was to fetch Wall's meals from a nearby restaurant. The menu never varied. It was coffee and rolls for breakfast; roast beef, potatoes and coffee for dinner; a ham sandwich and coffee for supper.

Wall used neither tobacco nor liquors. When he needed a suit of clothing he sent his clerk to purchase it. If the sleeves of trousers were too long he turned them up. He would not permit a cash register or telephone in his shop. Occasionally he would ask a clerk how it felt to ride in a trolley car, "L" or subway train. Descriptions of a moving picture show delighted and amazed him, but he would not attend one. He got his recreation from reading medical journals and experimenting with chemicals.

"STAND ON YOUR HEADS."

Fifty Ministers in Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Class Obeyed.

"Stand on your heads!" was the command that W. Earl Flynn, health evangelist, gave to fifty Cincinnati ministers in the Young Men's Christian association gymnasium. A remarkable scene followed.

The countless preachers, who are members of Flynn's gymnasium class, lay prostrate on the floor in two rows, with Flynn in the center. Under each member of the class was a newspaper to keep his clothing from being soiled by contact with the floor. Flynn's commands followed thick and fast, and the ministers gyrated, swung, twisted, bent and moved their bodies in all directions in vigorous efforts to obey him.

"Not huge external muscles, but healthy internal organs, is the goal we are after," said Flynn.

SCHOOL FOR FEATHERED PETS

Woman Teaches Birds Tricks, While Man Has Hospital For Them.

Two St. Louis residents who deeply love feathered folk have established schools and hospitals for homeless and helpless birds. One of them is Mrs. M. A. Fletcher, who has taught a canary known as English Norwich to play hide and seek, play "dead," kiss her and beg for its daily bath. She has dozens of other birds.

Charles L. Rand has fifty birds of many varieties, all of which he rescued from suffering and hunger and to some of which he has taught tricks. He releases the birds after they are well. Mr. Rand receives a consignment of 2,000 meal worms twice a week from New York to feed the birds. He also gives them a diet of hard boiled eggs, bread, mixed seeds, green stuff and chickweed, gathered occasionally in the parks.

India Has 315,000,000.

The final provisional census returns give the total population of India as 315,000,000. This is an increase of 20,500,000 as compared with 1901.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

DON'T ask a man for a loan unless you are reasonably certain that you will never be in a position in which he can take advantage of it.

There are plenty of men who want the earth who are not up in geology at all.

Every wife likes to think that she could have any amount of money if she could just bring herself to ask her husband for it.

Compliments are sweets that do not always agree with the mental digestion.

There are many people who would rather be right than be president from purely practical reasons.

The reason it is hard to keep a good man down is because he isn't a good man while he is down.

Some men know enough to find good jobs and choose good bosses. They are known as exemplary family men.

Gardening seems to a man an idyllic occupation until seedtime arrives with its lazy weather.

A man may be short of brains and still in his own estimation bulk big where he wears his hat.

The Spendthrift.

"There are lots of money grubbers in the world."

"Of course."

"You speak as if it were a good thing to be a money grubber."

"Sure. Where would the money come from for you and me to spend if it wasn't for the same?"

Nature's Weapon.

"It was all off with the burglar when she awoke and found him in her room."

"Did she reach for a gun?"

"No, indeed."

"Scream for help?"

"No."

"Then what did she do?"

"Talked him to death."

Clever Real Estate Man.

"He talked a lot to me."

"Treated me worse than that."

"He did?"

"I should say he did. Took me right in."

"How was that?"

"Talked a house and lot to me."

His Greatness.

"He is a great talker."

"On what subject?"

"Subject?"

"Yes."

"He doesn't have to have a subject. That's where his greatness lies."

Explained.

"A woman can't keep a secret."

"Of course not."

"But why can't she?"

"Because she knows that a secret isn't any good as long as it is kept."

Evidence.

"Is she rich?"

"Whyfully."

"Awfully do you think so?"

"Well, she keeps her husband on a salary."

Bad Case.

"Never argue with a fool."

"No?"

"No."

"But I hate to be still all the time."

A Bit of a Brush.

"Are his eyes black or blue?"

"Well, they were black once but I left him last night, but I dare say they are blue this morning."

Personal.

"How are hogs this morning?"

"They are away down."

"Does it make you feel cheap?"

Get Busy.

Don't sit around the shack and moan About your cruel fate Or say that you are sorrow's own, By her made desolate.

There isn't any question that Around mischances lurk. But call your courage to the bat And buckle down to work.

Perhaps if you could view things right Around you lying thick Are many chances where you might Make good in double quick.

Brace up, your best attention lend, And neither shift nor shirk. You have the means; look for the end And buckle down to work.

Do not load up on useless care And say your chance is small. But, rather, both your shoulders square And answer labor's call.

Don't let yourself surrounded be With dismal doubt and muck, But shake yourself from worry free And buckle down to work.

BRAND'S

TUMOR REMOVED FROM WOMAN'S BRAIN.

Patient Was Three Months In Preparation For Rare Operation.

Modern surgery achieved a signal triumph when the removal of a tumor from the pituitary gland of the brain, a rare and difficult operation, was successfully performed at Sacred Heart hospital in Spokane. The patient, Miss Maude Rupp, who was three months in preparation, was on the table four hours. The operation was witnessed by thirty-five physicians and fifty nurses.

The disease, known as acromegalia, is rare and fatal in the majority of instances. It causes the feet, hands and nose to swell to several times their natural proportions, distorts the features and results in blindness and paralysis.

Only fifteen operations are known to medical science.

DRUGGED BULLETS.

Plan to Use Them In Catching Wild Horses Alive.

Two Salt Lake men anxious to capture alive the best of the wild horses that roam in southern Nevada propose to shoot the animals with bullets tipped with magnesium, each containing a gelatin capsule filled with a narcotic drug.

The magnesium, it has been found, dissolves in the flesh and causes no permanent injury if a vital organ is not penetrated, while the opiate deprives the game temporarily of the power of locomotion.

In the nomadic equine bands are many magnificent specimens. Stallions valued at $5,000 a head are not uncommon. The present method of capturing is to wear them out by chasing them in relays.

If their method proves successful in Nevada the Salt Lakers will try it on wild beasts valued for exhibition purposes.

$100 BONUS FOR BABIES.

"Stork Mayor's" Bill "Goes Double" In Case of Twins.

Senator Beall, the "stork mayor" of Alton, Ill., has aroused the interest of Chicago wives by his bill to give a bonus of $100 for each baby born within two years after marriage. It goes double for twins and three ways for triplets. But it is not retroactive.

In 1909 there were 20,636 births in Chicago. In nine months of last year there were 18,147. Twins, the statistics show, come most frequently during the summer months. Fifteen pairs were born last June and fifteen during July—$3,000 worth of twins in two months.

Twins also "happen" in the spring time with considerable frequency. The other months of the year average about a dozen a month.

Ducking Stool For Shrews.

Superintendent Redmond Welch of the Lowell (Mass.) police declares that in his opinion the feminine sex is becoming more talkative. In an address referring to the ducking stool used for punishing talkative women in olden days he added, "From the frequent complaints arising from this sex at the present time it is doubtful if there are not many who would hail this method of punishment with delight and witness the chagrin of their worthy spouses by a dip."

EIGHT YEAR FIGHT, UNITED STATES VERSUS BEEF TRUST.

Feb. 18, 1903—Judge Grosscup issued injunction restraining packers from combining.

1904—Packers gave commissioner of corporations information about their business, an action on which later immunity claims were based. They alleged the government used the information as basis for indictments.

July 1, 1905—Indictment voted against four companies and sixteen packers.

Dec. 31, 1905—Cases called for trial.

March 21, 1906—Packers freed by "immunity bath" ruling of Judge Humphrey.

1908—Investigation taken up by federal grand jury and later discontinued.

1909—New investigation started.

March 21, 1910—Indictment voted against National Packing company and ten subsidiary concerns.

June 24, 1910—Indictment knocked out by Judge Landis and new grand jury investigation ordered.

July 14, 1910—New inquiry started.

Aug. 11, 1910—Thomas G. Lee, Armour & Co. manager, indicted on charge of perjury and Alfred R. Union charged with destroying stenographers' notebooks.

Aug. 15, 1910—Union discharged from citation rule and other respondents held for further hearing.

Sept. 12, 1910—Ten packers indicted.

March 22, 1911—Judge Carpenter denies plea to quash indictments.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Ever mindful of your best interests, kind friends, Dr. John F. Spaulhurst, President of the Spaulhurst Institute of Osteopathy, begs to announce that he has arranged for Dr. R. J. Pickhardt, a member of the Institute staff to reside in Seymour, that your needs may have constant care. This will be most gratifying to the champions of Osteopathy because it enables them to secure an osteopath in emergencies for acute troubles as well as in chronic cases.

Offices of The Spaulhurst Osteopaths are being renovated and more completely equipped, over the First National Bank. Nothing has been overlooked for the attainment of the best results and for the accommodation of patrons. Now is your opportunity to regain health by Nature's own methods. There can be no good reason for you to remain sick and all out of gear when opportunity to get well is knocking at your door. Phone 557.

If you have tried many methods in vain, suppose you look into the merits of Osteopathy, consultation and examination will cost you nothing here at home and under the most favorable circumstances. It has been abundantly demonstrated in this community that Osteopathy relieves pain, adds health, prolongs life, helps all, cures many and injuries none and here lies your opportunity to get well. What it has done for your neighbor, it will do for you.

Ask those who have given the treatment a fair trial and you will learn that they received commensurate benefit—a little more satisfaction than they expected. Eleven years of successful practice, Fifth Floor State Life Building, Indianapolis bespeaks for the Spaulhurst Osteopaths your confidence and patronage. Will you not give them a fair trial? Nature welcomes aid that wisely comes from her hand-maid, Osteopathy. Follow Nature's mandates and strengthen the forces making for HEALTH through rational healing measures that are sure and accurate in results and are now made available to all who suffer, by reason of a resident osteopath.

DATE IS SET

By Commissioners For Local Option Election.—Other Business.

The commissioners Monday evening granted the petitions for local option elections in Brownstown, Carr and Vernon townships and set April 27 for holding them.

Both the "wets" and the "drys" will be represented on the election boards, the commissioners agreeing to name the men presented by each side.

The drys have their men selected and it is expected that they will be appointed this afternoon. In the south precinct of Vernon W. O. Seifers was recommended Monday for judge, and Dr. McCormick for clerk. In the north half T. King was selected for judge and Ed Conaway for clerk. W. P. Rider will serve as election commissioner for the township.

The commissioners today appointed J. S. Campbell of Crothersville, a justice of the peace for Vernon township.

The county officers reported collection of fees since January 1 as follows: Auditor, $104.35; clerk, $581.-

25; sheriff, $108.32; recorder $688.45.

Bonds were filed by the following gravel road superintendents: W. H. Buse and George Stahl of Jackson township; John Maschino, Henry Termellen and Charles A. Adams of Redding township.

Ludicrous Mistakes.

Eighth grade pupils in every county in passing examination for admission to the high school furnish some astounding information. In Huntington county the following mistakes were recently made:

"Chicago is in Massachusetts on the Hudson river.

"George Washington was the inventor of the cotton gin; Ben Franklin invented the steamboat and Ben Harrison originated the telegraph.

"Wheat grows chiefly in the city of Chicago, coffee in Buffalo and cotton in Duluth.

"The capillaries are small tubes that carry messages.

"Illinois, Ohio and Michigan are limited monarchies.

"London is a part of Milwaukee.

"New York and Indiana are partly in the new world and partly in the old."
